I would like to make myself heard in regards to this issue.

As a present user of Microsoft products, I am heartily disgusted with the underhanded, snake like ways of this company. I am appalled at the lack of integrity, the ongoing lack of concern for their customers, and overtly greedy, power-hungry behaviours.

It is my belief that unless a very heavy penalty is handed down and ENFORCED, this company will blithely go about business as usual in it's effort to own the web. Right now, as their day of judgment nears, they still have not ceased with the behaviours and tactics that got them in this position to begin with.

Please, do not allow this monopoly to continue unhindered. The computing world will rue the day.

Thank you,
Donna E. Deslippe
